

ALEXANDRIA, VA.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5, 1873.

GEN. GRANT has the merit of making short speeches-when he does speak-and of writing admitting of recognition had been established short messages. The Inaugural is no exception. He makes some promises of good intentions on his part, which the public hope will be carried out into action. There is nothing particularly noticeable in the document. There is no disposition to cavil at it-though some paragraphs might have been better omitted. We prefer to judge by what will be done-and in the mean time, to show a disposition to treat him fairly and justly, notwithstanding all that has passed.

Among the bills passed by the House of Delegates on Monday, were the following: To authorize the corporate authorities of Winchester and supervisors of Frederick county to subscribe to the capital stock of the Shenandoah Valley Agricultural Society; to incorporate the town of Louisa, Louisa county; to authorize the trustees of Hamilton Lodge, No. 37, A. F. and A. M., to borrow money for the purpose of it is doubtful whether there will be a quorum erecting a Masonic hall; to authorize counties, cities, towns and townships to endorse the bonds of the Washington, Cincinnati and St. Louis railroad company; to protect butter and cheese manufacturers, and to incorporate the Masonic Relief Association of the city of Norfolk; also, the Senate joint resolution to authorise the Board of Public Works to receive the amount due by the Alexandria, Loudoun and Hampshire Railroad Company, and to extend the time for the completion of the Washington and Ohio railroad to the town of Winchester.

Among the prominent measures that failed at the late session of Congress, may be named the Utah bill, the Geneva award bill, the effort to correct troubles in Louisiana, postal telegraphy, the agricultural college bill, and the various bills to provide for the resumption of specie payments. Among the prominent acts passed may be mentioued the repeal of the franking privilege, the revision of the pension laws, the reduction of the internal revenue force, the fishery bill, and the postal reform bill. The exact shape of the last-named measure is unknown at present, but the reduction in letter postage and the prepayment of news paper postage were, it is thought, retained

On Saturday the House of Representatives amended the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, as it came back from the Senate, so as to give the President $50,000, Vice-President and Speaker $10,000, judges of the Supreme Court $10,000, Senators and Representatives $6,500. In this shape the bill went to a conference committee of the two houses, and was reported back, making the salary of Senators and Representatives $7,500, instead of $6,500. In this form it passed, with a proviso that, as to the salaries of Congressmen, it should take effect from March 4, 1871.

A meeting of the King George Agricultural and Pomological Society was held at "Farley Vale," the residence of Maj. J. D. Rogers, on the 27th ult., at which the subject of the eradi cation of sassafras was discussed; also the growth of grass seed for the benefit of land. Suitable resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Com. Maury were also adopted, and the society adjourned to meet on the 29th of March at Dr. Arnold's.

A dispatch from Washington says: "The House Judiciary Committee submitted no report in reference to Judge Durrell, of Louisiana. This fact has added to the impression fast gaining ground that the Judge acted within the authority conferred by law, and that if there is any fault it is in the law itself. It is understood also that the President and the Cabinet are a unit in sustaining the decrees of the Court."

The Washington Chronicle says :- "It is given out by those who profess to be wise above what is officially announced, that there will be two or three changes in the Cabinet; that the to-morrow. Secretaries of War, of the Navy, and of the Interior propose to retire. The presumption is that all the Cabinet have tendered their resignations, as is the custom, leaving the President free to remove if he wishes to do so."

President Thiers delivered his promised speech in the National Assembly yesterday, and it is described as having been a great one. He gave strong assurances of his steady adherence to the compact of Bordeaux. The Chamber afterwards adopted the preamble to the constitutional project, which asserts the constituent power of the Assembly.

On Tuesday Mr. Colfax delivered his farewell address to the Senate, in which he claimed that, as presiding efficer of that body, "he had committed no act which has proven the confidence misplaced, that had called him to that position." The usual resolution of thanks to him for his services was passed.

These immigrants are from the eastern part of Switzerland, and arrived in New York on Friday by the steamer Greenwhich. From New York they took the Old Deminion steamship line to Norfolk. These immigrants are en route to Grundy county, Tennessee, where there is already a large colony of this hardy race of people, successfully engaged in agricultural pursuits. I have a word to say, with a view to the promotion of an Agricultural Society out of the material assembled in Alexandria every year at rected to liturgical worship, by something he read in one of his books; and little by little, changed course of preparation for the ministry in the Episcopal Church. Not wishing to make ap-plication to his father for funds for this purpose, he left home and came to Maryland, and pened a school near Baltimore, to support imself, whilst pursuing his theological studies under the direction of Rev. Drs. John Johns and Henshaw. He was ordained we believe, in the early part of the year 1834; was soon after called to Christ Church, Alexandria, where he It is said that in New York on Sunday remained for twenty-six years, or until 1860, when he temoved to the Diozease of Mississippi, taking charge of the church at Port Natchez.

Dr. Dana was a gentleman of pleasant manners, though his temperament was not ardent. His preaching was sound; his sermons admirably written; though he never was an impassioned speaker. He was appointed a Trus tee of the Theological Seminary; elected regularly a member of the Standing Committee, and of the Elucation Society of the Diocease.

He made many friends; his congregation valued him highly; and he was a good and pure christian man. He represented the Diocese of Mississippi, in the last General Convention, and on his return home, spent several weeks with his friends in Alexandria, at which time it was the writer's pleasure to meet him. He little thought, it was for the last time. But or sorrow will ever reach him.

Thus the clergy that for so many years blessed this diocese are departing. Moore and Meade; the Wilmers and Jacksons and Me-Guires; Grammer, and Empie and Adie and and Wingfield and others whose names are familiar, have gone before; and now our old of this Diocese and so many of her noble laity, by God's grace, meet in the upper sanctuary. -Southern Churchman.

THE APPROACHING MARCH FROST.-We are again threatened with another attack of Arctic weather. This may be regarded as the March frost, which appears to be as regularly recurring a phenomenon as the January thaw. The weather reports of yesterday mention intense cold, more than thirty degrees below zero in the central parts of the Northwest, and the usual sea of Polar air, descending thence southeastwardly, may, no doubt, be expected tomorrow. The great March frost last year inflieted its terrible bite on the whole lake country and the States adjacent. On the 5th of March the mercury read at Troy, Ogdensburg and Watertown (in this State) from fourteen to thirty degrees below zero. It ranged near fifmuch lower in Canada. We may, therefore, expect some of the coldest weather of the Winter within the next twenty-four hours and put on our warmest wrappings to prepare for the bracing blast. Experience teaches that such terrific cold is invariably followed, after the lapse of three or four days, by the snow storm along and off the coast, and our port craft coasters and outward bound seamen must be doubly vigilant till the danger is past. May we not with reason hope that the approaching cold snap is the last of the expiring Winter's desperate, deadly efforts to retain its icy dominion over us, and that before the Ides of March the Spring may obtain the ascendancy over the whole country ?-N. Y. Herald.

Next followed the Secretary of State and Mrs. Fish, and all the other members of the Cabinet with the ladies of their respective households, and a number of members of the diplomatic corps, headed by Sir Edward Thornton, Generals Sherman and Sheridan and other officers of the army, together with many gentlemen of high official stations accompanied by ladies. formed a portion of the Presidential party, who passed down the room to the platform, the bands mean-

They took seats on the platform especially constructed for the Presidential party, which was elaborately adorned, and with gas jets representing the names of Grant and Wilson.

Among the most noticeable of the e at the ball was the Minister from Japan, escorting a Chinese lady in the full dress of her country. The Cadets from West Point and the Naval Academy all attended the ball as invited guests. The Burgess Corps. of Albany, were also present, and attracted much attention by their showy uniforms.

The supper was on a magnificent scale in all respects, and proved satisfactory to everybody. The ball is regarded as a success, the only detraction being the insufficiency of the preparation made for warming the hall, many ladies and gentlemen having to wear their outer wrappings during the evening.

I am satisfied that a well authenticated regis ter of experiments in agriculture would be of the greatest value, and I cannot but think that such an organization as I propose would be enabled to have valuable experiments made with results carefully combined and noted down, so as to produce a record that would prove a valuable guide for future action. This record would enable us to look on agriculture with our own, instead of our grandfathers' eyes, Gibson, and afterwards of Trinity church, and help us as farmers to attain our object with the least expenditure of labor. money and time. Though I do not hold that theory is opposed to practice, yet I do believe "to learn farming a man must farm." but at the same time he may be vastly benefited by the experience of other farmers. The peritioner was married in 1852, and his wife died in February 1871, leaving surviving eight children as the doubt not to a better world, where no trouble, fruits of said marriage. His mother-in-law and SAW MILL. took great interest in her grandchildren, and the complainant in the divorce bill, at the time feeling that the grandmother was nearer and dearer to his children than any other human being, and was bound to them by the ties of money is paid, as a further security therefor Beall and Keith and Friend and Chisholm and common affection, married her, believing that Carraway and Kinckle and Lippitt and Cole the marriage would better subserve the interests of the children, and more largely promote his own happiness than any other course then left for him; hence on the 10th day of September, 1871, a marriage was duly solemnized ber, 1871, a marriage was duly soleming u between parties of Shelby County. The parties French Mu tard, for sale by J. C. MILBURN. lived together as man and wife for two months. and it never occurred to either of them that there was any impropriety, legal or moral, in

In November the parties ceased to live together and agreed to apply for a divorce; hence they applied for a divorce a vinculo, or that the marriage teen degrees below zero at Albany, and very be pronounced a nullity, and that the said parties, complainant, and defendant, be declared free from the supposed obligation and its consequences. SUPREME COURT DECISIONS. - In the case of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad against the State of Pennsylvania, (No. 21.) the question was whether a tax laid by the State upon the gross receipts of the road was unconstitutional, as being in conflict with the power delegated to Congress to regulate commerce among the States, and as being in the nature of an l impost. As to inter-State transportation, the Court say that while no tax can be imposed by the State upon it, the fruits of such transportation may be taxed in the manner here adopted, such fruits, in the form of gross receipts. the company's property.
